Artisan Mery Aguilar

Mery Aguilar makes many of Minga's best-selling ceramics. She lives in Lima, Perú with her parents and adopted son, Angel.

Mery learned the craft from her sister, Aide, in 1990, and currently runs her business out of her home workshop. Due to the demand for her ceramics, she is able to give work to eight additional artisans. Because her parents no longer work, she is responsible for maintaining her family's household on the income she earns with her ceramics, and this is a strong motivator to continue learning. While she has learned a lot from her past 25 years of experience, she wants to continue studying business to train herself more, saying that "one never stops learning."
